

One day construction training

The scaffolding world needs knowledge. In the olden days, intuitive guideline were sufficient, but today strict regulations apply. Often, there is no time for comprehensive training or schooling. That is why Paul Brouwer XXL developed this one day session for scaffolding professionals on basic level that deal with Layher scaffolding on a regular basis.

In one day Paul Brouwer MSc shares with you all basic aspects of the construction of scaffolding. His story includes starting points to gain valuable insights when constructing or designing Layher-Allround scaffolding. Participants learn by making simple calculations.
